

Four Ways to Sell More with the Product Library

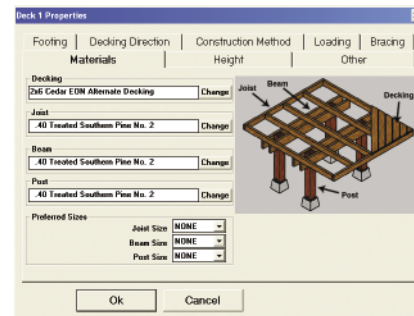

The screenshots and captions below show and explain the four ways the Product Library works in our software to give users a quick and easy way to design with your materials.

1

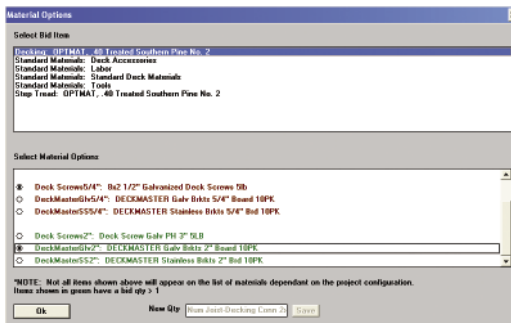

This is the marketing screen that advertises your products in our software. These are HTML pages that can give users detailed information about your products.

2

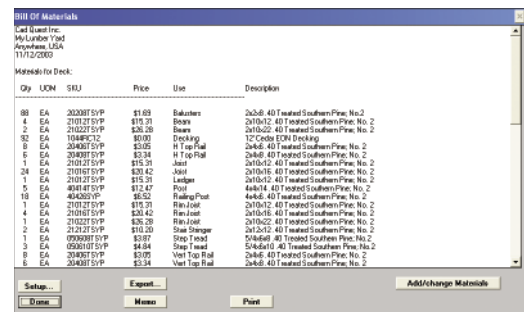

This dialog is one of the places users can go to select your materials. We include step-by-step demos to help users design with specific manufacturer materials.

3

Here's another place users can go to select your materials. Again, step-by-step demos help them learn how and where to select specific manufacturer materials.

4

On the bill of materials screen users will see your materials along with properly engineered amounts needed. This list serves the professional by showing them exactly what's needed to build the deck—your materials included.
